adding style for a element in magento I want to add style for a image in magento i.e want to add transparent background to my image. I want to add this style in my css file and apply it for a image which is displayed in the header of a magento site. I have added the below code in my css file `.test { background: transparent; }` but the style is not getting applied. A: If you want to change all images which are stored in your Magento site, you should create a custom css-class (e.g. `css_main_image_change`) and apply it: `.css_main_image_change { background:`

transparent; } D. Andrea Mitchell has written a thorough examination of the role that the New York Fed played in 2008 and the subsequent collapse of the US and global economy. Her conclusion is stark: the American people have been lied to and the corruption has reached as high as the top levels of government. We've known for a long time that the Democratic party has undergone what was historically referred to as a "brain drain," leaving behind young professionals, college graduates and former members of the military to return to their home countries, most often Europe. This may be happening in a political sense, but it's much worse than that as it also threatens the most significant industry that has played a role in keeping America strong – the military. The RAND study referred to in this article spells out the seriousness of what is happening. As the Arab Spring continues to unfold and the socialist movement spreads across the “West”, we see our fellow Americans gradually losing their interest in what passes as the “Third World.” I've even heard conservatives whining
