BulletProof FTP Server Product Key allows the user to create an FTP server on a computer so that multiple clients can connect and exchange data. Straightforward interface, easy configuration Although it may sound like a lot of trouble, setting it up is not complicated thanks to the intuitive interface and easy to understand set of options. However, you should be warned from the start that this is not a tool for the average Joe and computer knowledge is required in order to make sure that the data exchange is completed securely and under optimum conditions. The simple and straightforward interface presents all the necessary details about the server in the main application window. The details are interactive and allow changing the configuration by simply double-clicking on the entries. Configuration options The list of options is impressive and offers the administrator total control over the connection and how it is used by the clients. The settings available ensure the smooth running of the server taking into consideration various aspects such as firewall protection, client connections coming from different addresses or the bandwidth assigned for the file transfer purposes. Security measures such as password encryption or blocking FXP (server to server) transfers are also present in the application. On the same note, it can restrict the number of connection attempts with the wrong credentials and it can temporarily ban users that keep trying to connect when the maximum number of connections has been reached. However, despite the ease of use and the great list of options, BulletProof FTP Server lacks many of the features present in software of the same feather. Conclusion BulletProof FTP Server can prove a great asset for an administrator that wants an easy to configure solution; but for someone that wants a full-featured, complex FTP server the application might not provide the necessary flexibility. Whenever I got into a jam with my friends, he'd always say that I'd make it out of the mess I'd got myself in. In a way, I think I'm still the hero of my own story – I… I made this out of scrap and a couple of bolt cutters. It was an awful lot of fun making it, and I can't wait for people to see what I've been up to. This first video shows you how I made the contraption. In the second video, you get to see how the contraption actually works. And finally, this video shows you what the contraption actually looks like after it's been given a paint job. This robot was just a lot of fun to make. I got to have lots of practice with metalwork, and most importantly, I got to just be creative and work on a couple of projects in the car. This is a total guess at it, but I'm pretty sure the smallest components are magnetized? The rotating cylinder on the top looks like a little drum for a hopper for the pins? I have no clue? A magnet could work? Nice to see something else out of metal! Nicely done, although I hate the color and prefer a grayer finish! Yes, I made it for a science competition, where I made a couple of different objects out of metal (the robot in this video, and the green box at the beginning
